Site Milled Lumber Grading

Have you ever wanted to have lumber milled on your property and use it for a construction project? Building a structure out of site milled materials can be very rewarding. Typically, when lumber is purchased from a supplier it has already been graded for quality. When lumber is milled onsite all structural lumber needs to be graded for quality and strength. In order to do this a certified third party grader will need to come to the site to grade/stamp the materials and provide an inspection report. Many traveling certified graders are regularly in the northern California area to conduct these services.

A list of certified lumber graders is included below. If you hire a lumber grader that is not included on this list, please have them contact us to be reviewed and approved prior to completion of grading services.
