SUPERVISORY COURSE

Through a series of facilitated individual and small group learning activities, the students will develop the knowledge, skills, and abilities to understand their role as organizational leaders, enhance effectiveness, adopt an analytical approach as a leader, identify and analyze useful leadership tools, and identify expectations from community, management, peers, and subordinates. Additionally, students will discover leadership is about influence and relationships, identify and analyze individual leadership and communications styles, and identify, interpret, and analyze, individual behavioral tendencies. This course meets the POST Administrative Manual (PAM), section 10056A, content requirements. The Supervisory Course is specifically designed for sworn first-level supervisors and may not be compatible with the needs of students who are other than sworn first-line supervisors.
